

Privacy Policy

Last updated: July 14, 2026

Overview

PickleIQ operates pickleiq.co. This privacy policy explains what information we collect, how we use it, and your rights regarding your data.

Information We Collect

When you take the PickleIQ diagnostic, we collect your first name, email address, and your answers to the 13 assessment questions. We do not collect payment information directly — payments are processed by PayPal, which has its own privacy policy.

How We Use Your Information

We use your information to deliver your personalized coaching breakdown by email, send follow-up emails related to your diagnostic results, and improve the diagnostic over time. We do not sell your information to third parties.

Email Communications

By submitting the PickleIQ diagnostic, you agree to receive your results and occasional follow-up emails related to your assessment. You may unsubscribe at any time by replying to any email with "unsubscribe" in the subject line.

Data Storage

Your responses are stored in Google Sheets, which is governed by Google's privacy policy. Your email address is stored for the purpose of delivering your results and follow-up communications.

Your Rights

You may request that we delete your data at any time by emailing bob@elevateyourpickleballgame.com.

Contact

For any privacy-related questions, contact Bob Savar at bob@elevateyourpickleballgame.com.